Four days ago the band played a Halloween party, and stepped into the night to find their bass player with a bleeding neck. The vampires are gone now, but the price was high. Matt is dead, and Gus and Mark are injured, making Nate's need to play seem impossible. And Tyler wants Sarah. Sarah's grief for her brother hurts, but her guilt over the things that the rest of their family had done was worse. Meeting another victim, Allison, doesn't help, but then it does as they build a friendship. Allison had shut out painful feelings from her past, but a traumatic event set everything loose, and now she is struggling to conquer her family background as well. As everyone converges on a winter party in a small town, maybe they can help each other heal.
