FINAL DASH (book 3 of SwimBikeRun, Kate Pavelle, 73,500 words) The two short months since Jesse Hightower moved in with Sebastian Gillen have been filled with furious relatives and tabloid reporters. Hard enough to make a life with the scion of an ice cream dynasty who's been thrown out in the cold, but Jesse's own soul-wounds ache. How can he get help without looking weak to his lover? If he can't be part of Gillen Frozen Desserts, Sebastian will whip up novel frozen treats for his own fledgling enterprise. With Jesse at his side, he can make his own way in business and in life. He's given up everything to start over with the man he loves—and who's now scaring him with fibs and secrecy. The triathlon they've been training for is almost upon them. Everything Jesse and Sebastian have worked for is on the line.

They're racing for strength, glory, and each other. FINAL DASH is a gay romance with a happy ending and no cliff-hanger.
