Haunted by a crippling fear of water, Cassidy O'Connell checks into an old Washington State inn to fulfill her best friend's last wish of touching the Pacific Ocean. But her presence awakens the inn's magic. And a curse.

Scarred by loss, charter boat captain Griff Perry trusts no one, including Cassidy when he finds her living inside the abandoned 1909 inn he's fighting to keep. But Griff's anger turns to enchantment when he discovers that Cassidy sees the inn just as it was in 1909 and can communicate with the innkeeper. They learn that the inn's deed is tied to a curse that forever separates two lovers lost at sea on their wedding day. Forced to trust each other, Cassidy and Griff risk everything to break the curse and weather the dark storm it unleashes.
