Cloaked figures gather around a stone table, perusing ancient parchments.

It is All Hallows' Eve, and they have come to hear tales of great terror. How a ghostly seduction drives a man to madness. Another walks the world of dreams and must come to face his nightmares. A child braves the dark of night, seeking out the place of friendship lost.

There is the tale of foul murder, frustrated by forces beyond the mortal ken.

Finally, they will hear the story of a wicked man, who faces monstrous vengeance. What is sacred? And to what purpose do we dedicate our lives? For only through the shedding of blood, can we be truly clean...
