Douglas Drake and Addison Goddard succeeded in preventing the Eternal One from awakening; an event which would have brought about the end of the world.

But the summoning which almost destroyed everything released an untold number of demons and now the two boys, along with Addison's parents, must face a series of demonic possessions and attempt to exorcise the victims. At the same time, Doug struggles to control and use his strange powers under Addison's guidance, a task which is sometimes complicated by his intense passion for the other boy. And on top of all this, Doug must deal with coming out to his friends. But which is worse: explaining that he is gay or that he is a wildly dangerous telekinetic? Recommended for readers 18 and up.
