In the midst of a deadly cold winter, Detective Kendall Halsrud returns, faced with a body found frozen on a neighbor's porch and days later, the brutal murder of a teen-age couple. The body of the boy is found shot to death in his car, and the girl he was with, is missing.

When the girl's body is discovered in a garbage receptacle, Kendall's partner insists there is a connection between the death of these teenagers and a famous case from ten years ago when three teenage couples from the western Wisconsin area disappeared. Adam Nashlund, the man Kendall has been living with, is found critically injured after an undercover assignment. Torn between her fear for Nash and her dedication to find a killer, Kendall devotes all her efforts and possibly her life, looking for a murderer and his accomplice.
