This is an alternate cover edition for B017QDZ7D8 Having grown up as "trailer park trash," M McCallister is familiar with hardship. In a bid to prove her worth—to herself and to the world—she moves across the country, hoping to build a new life. But first, she'll need her sister's help. Jonathan Davenport is handsome, wealthy, and well-bred. And M's sister has brought unspeakable tragedy to his family, leaving him to raise his baby sister. She's sworn off men, and he wants to marry a classy woman with a background similar to his. But they're both looking for a home.
