Jason Price is engaged to marry his high school sweetheart when deeply repressed desires surface sending him on an emotional roller coaster of self-discovery. The foundation of his identity is shaken as he struggles with self-acceptance and tries to reconcile his own deeply held stereotypes with coming of age in a rural southern town. Mike Thomas is an older man who sees in Jason reflections of himself but battles conflicting feelings toward the younger man. Mike's sexual appetite makes it difficult to find a partner who understands his unusual desires. Their journey teaches both men valuable lessons and opens their eyes to new possibilities.
