It's the early seventies. Thirteen year old Danny becomes infatuated with a girl in the year below him at school. As his teenage years go by he becomes more and more tongue tied when he's near her, while she appears not to even notice him. As he goes through his twenties, maturity, work, girlfriends and distance allow him to forget his infatuation. Now in his thirties with his life working out well Danny has a bizarre chance meeting with his old school infatuation.

Suddenly he has a whole new range of decisions to make and he keeps making the wrong ones.
