The United States is under attack. New York has been bombed. Washington D.C. has been assaulted. And now, a major American city has been targeted for a nuclear strike which could hit at any time. The mysterious terrorist organization, Al Jabbar, is trying to destroy America with the help of the evil mastermind Shahryar. And the only person with any hope of stopping them before they can bring their master plan of destruction to fruition is the least likely candidate - Blaire Reese, a CIA trained prostitute. Blaire has been disgraced, suspended from the CIA, and kidnapped by her rival, Sabrina Scott. She is being held prisoner at Shahryar's compound in Dubai.

But Shahryar has plans for Blaire, plans which may be vital to bringing the United States to its knees. As Blaire struggles to overcome Shahryar's brainwashing, she comes to the horrifying conclusion that the only way to stop Sabrina and save her country is to give in, accept Shahryar's teachings, and use them to turn the tables on the enemy. This is no longer a game of seduction - it is a game of global manipulation, played on a level usually reserved for kings and presidents. If she hopes to save the day, Blaire must become a master manipulator the likes of which the world has never seen - but can she do so without becoming a villain herself? The clock is ticking. The enemy is about to strike. Millions of lives hang in the balance. When the chips are down, and all appears to be lost, Blaire is going to have to find strength she never knew she had.

She's going to have to become smarter, more ruth, and more daring than anyone - including her nemesis Shahryar - ever expected her to be. And she's going to show the world exactly what a Dangerous Diva is capable of. Book 4 of the Cathouse Series is a shocking, entertaining, and sexually-fueled spy thriller unlike any readers have ever before experienced. Discover the twists that occur after the events of A Professional Bitch, and witness the power of a Dangerous Diva.
