When this scoundrel abducts an innocent it's his heart in danger of being stolen. London society sees Leif Riley, Viscount Neville, as a rake charmer of wealthy women.

No one sees his silent desperation to restore his impoverished ancestral holdings to their once-formidable glory. When he spies a fresh-faced Irish lass at court, something beyond her slim, feminine form and hefty dowry quickens his pulse. Which only makes the truth—that a love match will never be his—too much to bear. Pursued across the Irish Sea by a secret that could shatter her dream of a loving husband and children to cherish, Abbigael Granger has no time for handsome rakes. Yet she can't deny how Leif's stolen kiss illuminates her innocent body. Awakening from a despair-driven binge, Leif is horrified to find that his impulsive abduction of Abbigael was no drunken dream.

Yet while Abbigael discovers there are certain pleasures to be found in a rake's marriage bed, Leif wonders if he can ever leave his scandalous past far enough behind to be the man of her dreams. Or if he deserves the heart she offers.

Warning: Contains a sexy Viscount skilled in the twin arts of lovemaking and seduction, a fair Irish innocent desperate to break free from the misery of her past and rumors of madness. A hasty abduction involving silk stockings, a skull-splitting hangover, and a roadside inn interlude could steal your breath.
