This is the story of life after Todd. It's not the kind of story you want to hear. But you should read it anyway, because it's important. We're important. Two years prior to escaping from the tragedy that was the suicide of best friend Todd Maguire, Madison Baker has made the decision to return to her home in The Grove, a wealthy beach-town on the Jersey Shore, in order to reunite with and perhaps bring peace to a likewise suffering Faith Anderson. But just when all appears to be well- or close enough to it- will the secrets they both bear make it impossible for Faith to evade the heart-wrenching fate chosen by Todd, the boy she believed to have known and loved?
