Texas-based FBI Agent Jim Carr loses the love of his life in a drug bust he leads against the Zeta Cartel. Jim becomes a loose cannon disrupting drug flows and killing more than his share of cartel sicarios. He becomes indispensable but also a problem for the Bureau. Alene Oliviera remembers Jim saving her life in that same drug bust. When given responsibility by President Obama for a low profile Department of Justice interagency task force to disrupt cartel movement into the US she seeks him out. Jim sets up operations for Alene, but the Zetas have other ideas and they target Jim directly. Jim must balance his personal rage with his professional duties and somehow figure out what to do with his growing affection for Alene. Using cutting edge simulation technology, Jim and his partner, Willy Graves, a Dallas detective, accelerate their training with the US Army's best to disrupt the Zetas on their home turf. Only for every punch by the Task Force, the Zetas counterpunch in escalating fashion. Ultimately Jim is lured by the Zetas into setting the stage for an audacious plot to transform the very relations between Mexico and the US in such a manner as to make the Zetas almost unstoppable.

Only Jim and Willy stand between the Zetas and success.
