For feisty seventeen-year-old Zenovia, keeping strong in her faith is an uphill battle. Between her schizophrenic mother and their tough neighborhood, her life has never been even remotely near normal. When the Brethren of the Sacrifice Church offers them acceptance and a chance at stability, even skeptical Zee can't resist. Especially when Tristan, a handsome, fervent young member, acts like he wants her to be his one-and-only...and his wry older brother Justin reveals he's more interested in Zee than he pretends. But when she falls hard for Emil, the Brethren's outspoken rebel, her belief in mercy and tolerance puts her at odds with the Brethren, her new life—and her mother.

Now Zee must come to terms with betrayal, deceit, and false faith. As she fights to grow spiritually and live on her own terms, she will discover how love, forgiveness, and God's guidance can bring the most unexpected bings.
