Imagine an average guy with a wife, a job, average house, average car, average sex life... Well, not exactly. He has a secret he finds so embarrassing that he never talks to anyone about it. And then one day he meets her... Kyoko Church's 'For Her Pleasure' is an intensely kinky read perfect for those lusting after more than 'Fifty Shades of Grey'. An architect chairs the newly formed Sexual Harassment in the Workplace Committee. When the consultant he hires to help him organize the new committee turns out to be a red haired bombshell, he tries to rein in his untoward thoughts. But when she uncovers his embarrassing little secrets, this married man ends up in a relationship that's so wrong on every level of his carefully put together life. How long will he let his burning carnal desires threaten everything he's worked so hard for?
