When he was outed on the local news, Jeff Woods gave up his dream job as a detective to become an on-air radio personality.

The sacrifice was worth it to keep Alex and Sean in his life, but Alex lost his job, too. Jeff can tell Alex worries he's pressuring Jeff too much, first with Sean and now the lack of money, but he has no idea what that will lead Alex to do. Desperate times bring out the stupidity in some people, and when Jeff discovers Alex is in over his head in a situation he can't handle, he needs all his self-control to stay calm. Life is not easy with the Church of Virtue still spouting venom wherever they go, homophobes at the police department, a gangster who wants Alex in the worst possible way, and a bed that barely holds one grown man, much two (and a child), but Jeff is there to stay for good, and he'll do what it takes to make Alex believe him.
