Blaire Reese is a party girl. She likes booze, boys, and sex, and has no idea what she wants to do with her life...

until she's approached by the CIA to join an elite squad of undercover agents trained in the art of Seduction and Sexual Manipulation. Now, she's in a world where sex is used as a tool, and people are looked at as nothing more than puppets. Project Cathouse was designed from the ground up by the CIA to teach girls like Blaire how to use their sexuality to enslave the emotions of any person they desire, and then use that person for their own agendas. Blaire is on-board with her training until she falls in love with Drummond Scott, the top male trainee at the Cathouse. But how can she convince a man trained as the ultimate Seducer that her love is not only genuine, but that he should love her back? When emotions are liabilities and sex is a weapon, how can Blaire protect herself from being hurt? What is left for her to trust? When you're patriotic enough to become a whore, is it still possible to ever believe in love? The first book of the Cathouse Series sets the stage for a shocking, entertaining, and sexually-fueled spy thriller unlike any readers have ever before experienced.

Discover the start of the epic adventure of Blaire Reese, the world's sexiest - and most unlikely- hero.
