This volume contains; Inflamed, Jilted, Kindled and Lured. Continue your journey through the alphabet of love with Inflamed, Jilted, Kindled, and Lured. Meet sexy firefighters, brooding ballet dancers, and travel through Italy's romantic wine country in this "perfect blend of heartache, humor, heat, and happiness..."

INFLAMED Debra Martinez doesn't believe in happy endings. Even if she did, she knows she doesn't deserve one, not after betraying her best friend in the worst possible way. Eight years into single parenthood, her life is a grind of exhaustion in between spikes of fatigue—an end struggle to make ends meet—until Sean Orr, Havre de Grace's newest firefighter, shows her and her son, Aidan, a new and beautiful kind of "normal." But the happiness can't last—not for Sean who is on the run from his past. When it catches up with him, will it bring Debra's fragile normality crashing down around her, or will she find the strength to define her own happy ending?

JILTED Jon Seifer's on top of the world with an undergraduate degree from a top college, a thriving alternative health business, and a breathtaking girlfriend, Anjali Bhanot. Unfortunately, Anjali was, at birth, promised in marriage to a dashing man who holds a medical degree from Harvard Medical School, works as a cardiac surgeon at Mayo Clinic, and hails from the lofty Brahmin caste, just like Anjali. Everyone agrees—he's perfect for her. And why would Anjali—brilliant, talented, and an overachiever from birth—settle for anything than perfection?

KINDLED Nicholas Dragov, a principal dancer with the American Ballet Theatre, is the bad boy of ballet. On stage, his grand jeté defies the laws of physics and gravity. Off stage, he lavishes money on fast cars and fast women. His small-town roots are abandoned in the past, until a career-ending injury traps him back home, in the care of the woman who broke his heart.

Marisa Chantilly was Nicholas's first dance partner, but he alone made it onto the world stage. In the eight years since they have seen each other, she has married, become pregnant, a widow, and a mother. Now, Nicholas is home, his beautiful body broken, and his attitude darker and deeper than a volcanic crater. A massage therapist, she knows how to work with sports injuries, but no amount of training or professionalism can help her endure the man who abandoned her when she needed him most. LURED When an accident cuts short Dr. Shannon Larson's bicycle tour through Italy, she's rescued by a brusque, career-driven American lawyer—the same kind of man who once broke her heart. A week in Brandon Smith's company, however, convinces her that the similarities are superficial. Her Italian fling with Brandon becomes the highlight of her life, but can the glow of their holiday romance survive the harsh light of reality when they return to America and find themselves on opposite sides of the courtroom?
